Mundsinger receives OHA's 2020 Mary Cutter Bickford Award...

Oswegoland Heritage Association President Judy Wheeler (left) presented the group's Mary Cutter Bickford Award to Cathi Mundsinger on Aug. 27.

At their Aug. 27 meeting, the Oswegoland Heritage Association Board of Directors honored Cathi Mundsinger with the association's highest honor, the Mary Cutter Bickford Award for her extraordinary commitment to preserving local history in the tradition of Oswego historian Mary Cutter Bickford.

Mundsinger retired from the board last year after more than 30 years' service.

The award, named for lifelong Oswego resident and local historian, the late Mary Cutter Bickford, is presented to recognize truly outstanding efforts to preserve Oswego area history. Mary Bickford's collection of hundreds of historic Oswego photographs, documents, and books and ledgers formed the basis for the Little White School Museum's archival collection that currently stands at more than 14,000 items.

Previous winners were John Hafenrichter, Ted Clauser, Helen Zamata, Stephenie "Stevie" Todd, and Glenn Young.

Even before joining the board, Mundsinger worked with the group of volunteers in 1982 and early 1983 to create the museum's Subsequently, she served two stints on the Oswegoland Heritage Association Board of Directors, from 1983 to 1998 and from 2002 to 2019. She continued to be an active member between board stints as well, totaling more than 36 years of volunteer service to the organization.

dent Judy Wheeler. During her board tenures, she raised thousands of dollars for the heritage association. She created the association's commemorative crock fundraising project and oversaw it for many years. She also spearheaded the Little White School Museum snow globe project, and created the current, very successful, Cat's Meow annual miniature historic building fundraising project to replace the commemorative crock project.

Mundsinger was a prime organizer and volunteer during the heritage association's 1993 Stone House Walk. In addition to that, she took responsibility for the third grade field trip program and acted as its leader almost from its inception. Using her connections with the Oswego School District--she is a retired school district administrator--to promote the program, she not only turned it into a learning experience for the students, their teachers, and their parents, but also taught hundreds of Oswego School District third graders that local history can be both interesting and fun.

She served for many years as the heritage association's membership chair and as the association's memorial chair.

Then in 2013, she took leadership in the Oswegoland Heritage Association's strategic planning initiative, leading the series of planning sessions, organizing the materials, and publishing the eventual strategic plan document. She was also an integral part of the 2013 museum assessment process led by Pat Miller from the Illinois Heritage Association. She was also a leader in creating the heritage association's new vision and mission statements and tag line. Subsequently, she led the effort to plan for a complete reimagining and renovation of the Little White School Museum's exhibit gallery, which was completed and opened to the public in March 2018.

"Cathi's legacy in assuring the preservation of Oswegoland's rich history will be visible to everyone who visits the Little White School Museum for decades to come," concluded museum director Roger Matile.

The Little White School Museum is a joint project of the Oswegoland Heritage Association and the Oswegoland Park District.

Museum programs, exhibits go virtual thanks to Covid-19

The challenges the Oswegoland community has faced due to the on-going Covid-19 pandemic have been severe.

Thanks to the pandemic, the museum is now only open by reservation, and most programming and special events have gone virtual, accessed on either the museum's Facebook page or on the museum web site, www.littlewhiteschool-museum.org.

The last major exhibit at the museum, "At Home in Oswego's Past," filled the museum's main Roger Matile Room until it was taken down by volunteers Bob and Darlene Stekl on Oct. 8. Due to the pandemic, no further major exhibits have been scheduled.

Thanks to the organizational efforts of Little White School Museum Manager Tina Heidrich, the annual Oswego Cemetery Walk was turned into a virtual, video experience this year, titled "Cemetery Stories." Over five weeknights, a new video starring and Oswego "ghost" was presented on the museum's Facebook page. Museum staff provided the scripts while members of the Oswegoland Park District's Limelight Theatre Company portrayed the "ghosts."

"One of the positives with 'Cemetery Stories' was that we were able to include some historic Oswego personages from other cemeteries than the Oswego Township Cemetery," noted museum director Roger Matile.

The museum's first-ever on-line Zoom program, "Casting a Historic Vote: Suffrage in Illinois" marked the centennial of ratification of the 19th Amendment granting women the right to vote. The virtual program, organized by OHA Program Chair Tina Beard, was given Oct. 28 by Illinois Road Scholar Jeanne Schultz Angel.

Also due to the pandemic, the huge annual "Remembering Our Veterans" exhibit was cancelled.

Instead, Museum Manager Heidrich worked with the park district's graphics experts to bring one of the annual exhibit's most popular features, the "Wall of Honor," to the public. A video Wall of Honor featuring dozens of Oswego military veterans is now available on both the museum's Facebook and web pages.

Another casualty of the pandemic has been the museum's archives and research area, which has been closed to the public. However, the museum's reduced staff is still able to help those with Oswego-related research queries.

"We've been able to help several people with research questions via email and by copying information that they can then pick up at the museum," said Little White School Museum Director Roger Matile. ♡

Assistant Museum Director Bob Stekl retires

After 20 years of faithful volunteer service, Assistant Museum Director Bob Stekl decided to retire this past August. Stekl began volunteering at the museum in 2020.

After volunteering for a few months, Stekl joined the heritage association board in May of 2001, and served until he decided not to seek another term in May 2019.

"Bob was a major help in getting the collections backlog catalogued back when he started," noted Museum Director Roger Matile. "Starting in 1976, people started dropping off artifacts, photos, and documents at the museum that just piled up."

There were a few short-lived cataloging attempts in the 1980s, but not until Stephenie Todd and Keith Coryell organized sorting the items and helping develop a database system to record the collection did serious cataloging begin.

"I was sort of working on my own cataloging by 2000," Matile recalled. "So I welcomed the help. Bob had just retired and was looking for something to occupy his time--and, boy, did he find it! We started out on Thursdays and then added Saturday mornings."

As of mid-November, the museum's collection of catalogued items stood at 31,771 items. Of that total, Stekl was responsible for cataloging well over half, 17,862 items.

In addition to cataloging, Stekl successfully applied for state grants to house the Little White School Museum's ever-growing textile collection. The Oswegoland Heritage Association received two matching grants to buy shelving and textile boxes to store the collection, which now totals more than 2,000 items.

"Bob became our storage guru," Matile noted. "With his skills at rearranging collections materials, we have been able to barely get by with what little storage space

History continues to arrive on our doorstep...

Donors assure preservation of Oswegoland history

Little White School Museum staffers have nearly finished clearing up and organizing the accumulated backlog of museum donations that were dropped off at the museum in the years prior to 2001, while they're attempting to keep up with cataloging new donations that arrive at the museum on a regular basis.

Since the last newsletter was published in August, the museum has received several historically significant, donations. As The Bell Tower went to press, the museum database contained 31,771 items. That's 498 more items than were in the database last year at this time.

Staffers engaged in cataloging during the past year included volunteers Bob Stekl, Stephanie Just, and Roger Matile, along with museum staffer Sarah Kimes.

New acquisitions and their donors included a postcard from Leonard Hafenrichter to his parents mailed during World War II, Fred Mitchell; two Kendall County Treasurer political campaign cards, Roger Matile; two 1919 photos of Gaylord School students and their teacher, David Scheuring; bottles, shells, and miscellaneous items found in Waubonsie Creek, Danny Bliss; a 1902 Oswego High School graduation announcement, Harley Schoeger; a wooden travel trunk used by Ane Hornbeck when she immigrated to Oswego from Denmark in 1891, Don Hubbard; a photo of the Oswego High School student body in 1907 from an anonymous donor; a collection of Kay Wallace Hatcher's political and Boulder Hill memorabilia; a 1920s McCormick-Deering advertising brochure and a Zentmyer Ford emery board promotional advertising packet with the "Mr. Z" logo, Roger Matile; a photo of a group of Oswego women taken about 1952, Ted Clauser; Oswego Senior Center photos, Judy Siedlecki.

Museum staffers regularly check eBay for Oswego-related items, and when warranted, purchases are made. Purchases since the last newsletter include a two-page article in the June 1954 issue of Successful Farming magazine featuring recipes and a full-page color photo of Mrs. John (Lillian) Williamson. The Williamson's farm was located on Minkler Road south of Oswego. Besides her cookery, Lillian Williamson was also an accomplished artist. The museum has two of her watercolors in its collections.

The museum is open Thursday through Saturday by reservation. Call 630-554-4494 for information. Direct Oswego area research queries to 630-554-4494 or email info@littlewhiteschoolmuseum.org. ♡

Park district funds Little White School maintenance and upgrades...

Among the projects the Oswegoland Park District completed during the past year was replacing the monument sign at the intersection of Jackson and Polk streets. The new sign incorporates "Open" and "Closed" signs to alert motorists and pedestrians whether the museum is open.

During the past summer and autumn, the Oswegoland Park District has funded a number of maintenance projects at the Little White School Museum, making sure ongoing maintenance of the historic building is a top priority.

Money for the projects is generated by the separate Museum Fund real estate tax levy that is part of the Oswegoland Park District's real estate tax rate.

"Without the support of the Oswegoland Park District, for funding staff, maintenance and operations, the museum could not continue to operate," said museum director Roger Matile. "They make it possible for us to save the history and heritage of Oswegoland for future generations to enjoy and to learn from."

Two major projects were concluded at the Little White School Museum this past year. UV-filtering film was installed on the windows in the museum's main Roger Matile Room to keep harmful ultraviolet rays out, safeguarding any artifacts and documents on exhibit. Also, the Aurora Sign Company installed a new monument sign at the Jackson and Polk Street intersection and a decorative informational sign outside the main entrance on Jackson Street.

The new monument sign includes an "Open" and "Closed" sign that serves to alert drivers, pedestrians, and cyclists who are eastbound on Jackson Street that the museum is open for visitors.

"We're hoping the new signs will help drive more traffic to the museum and will better inform the community about our activities," suggested museum manager Tina Heidrich.

In addition, the Hilltop Garden Club has continued to brighten the museum's grounds—Heritage Park—during the past year by completely revamping the Heritage Garden along the park's east border with a new collection of heirloom perennials.

"There are flowers blooming there during just about every month during the growing season," noted museum director Roger Matile. "We really appreciate all the work the gardeners put in every year."

Projects planned for the coming year include refinishing the pulpit platform/stage in the main Roger Matile Room, and other minor maintenance items.

"Without the park district's assistance, we simply couldn't afford to keep up the museum," Matile said. "This is one public-private partnership that's worked well. ♡"

Help us collect Boulder Hill history...

Boulder Hill celebrates its 65th anniversary in 2021

Mr. and Mrs. Bev Skaggs' house at 22 Briarcliff Road, the first house sold in Boulder Hill, under construction in the summer of 1956.

In the summer of 1955, Don L. Dise, Inc. purchased the 716 acre Boulder Hill Stock Farms owned by the Bereman family, with the hope of building a new community mirroring those already under construction in Pennsylvania and New York by the Levitt family.

The development, which had a major impact on the entire mid-Fox River Valley, will celebrate its 65th anniversary in 2021.

The big push westward from Chicago to the suburbs was just beginning in 1955; so it was a good time for Dise and his investors to attempt such a venture. Caterpillar Tractor Company had already announced plans to build a huge manufacturing complex a couple miles west of the Fox River from the farms, and Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of AT&T, was busy opening a new plant on the opposite bank of the river. Eventually, the two plants employed some 10,000 workers and the need for housing was obvious. In addition, liberal government loans through the post-World War II and Korean War G.I. Bills offered excellent financing for the young veterans of the two conflicts and their families.

As the first step, a professional city planner, Carl Gardner & Associates, was hired to map out a town, with houses and apartments to attract buyers in all income levels, as well as space for churches, schools, parks, and essential businesses. The completed plan provided for approximately 2,000 families.

Ground was broken in the spring of 1956 for the first group of model homes in Unit 1.

The sales manager for the corporation, A. C. Hyde, decided to rehab one of the three farm homes on the property for his own residence. In doing so, it was discovered that it had been the clubhouse for one of the first golf courses in the area. The grand opening of the Aurora Golf Club was held on the site in May 1901. The club leased 50 acres from the Bereman farms and laid out a nine-hole course, just 11 years after the very first course in the United States was laid out in Yonkers, NY. In those pre-paved road days, the course was relatively isolated and in 1907 it closed and moved to Aurora and was renamed the Aurora County Club. The Bereman land reverted to farm uses until 1955.

During the summer of 1956 utilities were brought in, roads were laid out, and six model homes were built. The first house at 22 Briarcliff Road at was sold in May 1956 to Mr. and Mrs. Bev R. Skaggs of Aurora. The model homes, two of which were completely furnished, were opened to the public in September 1956. By the end of the year, 11 families were living in Boulder Hill, including Mr. and Mrs. Dise and their two children, who moved into the large Bereman house on the hill, and the A. C. Hydes, who had rehabbed the farmhouse.

sible to extend streets through to Douglas Road. This was the first of several additional parcels of land added to Boulder Hill. Eventually growth to the south permitted Boulder Hill Pass to be extended to U.S. Route 34, east of the Village of Oswego, with the Boulder Hill community becoming contiguous to the village.

Originally, sanitary sewer service was provided to the development by the Aurora Sanitary District—now the Fox-Metro Water Reclamation District—and water came from one of the old Bereman farm wells at 7 Briarcliff Road. In September 1958 an agreement was concluded with the Village of Montgomery to supply municipal water service to Boulder Hill—at double water rates.

When the subdivision opened, rural mail delivery to a long lineup of rural mailboxes at 5 Briarcliff Road came from the Oswego Post Office. In September 1958, thanks to negotiations by the community's main civic organization, the Boulder Hill Civic Association, the community's address was changed to Aurora and house-to-house mail delivery began.

The community, which remained unincorporated despite its population as the largest in Kendall County, received its street and sidewalk maintenance from Oswego Township, and its police protection from the Kendall County Sheriff's Department. The subdivision's children attended Oswego School District 308 schools, and

The Boulder Hill Playhouse, on Briarcliff Road just across U.S. Route 30, opened in the summer of 1958 as a community theatre under the management of Jack and Lucille Goring, and featured several plays every season until it was destroyed by arson in 1967.

Oswego-themed holiday gifts available at the museum store...

Latest "Cat's Meow" historic miniature on sale

The latest architectural miniature building in the OHA's series, manufactured by Cat's Meow, is expected to go on sale Dec. 1. This year's selection is the landmark Church of the Good Shepherd United Methodist, built in 1896 at the busy corner of Washington and Madison streets.

If you're looking for a unique Oswego-themed gift this holiday season, the Little White School Museum's gift shop has a fine selection.

The sixth entry in the OHA's series of architectural miniatures of village landmark buildings created exclusively for the association by Cat's Meow of Wooster, Ohio is on sale. The latest selection is the landmark Church of the Good Shepherd United Methodist at the busy corner of Washington and Madison streets.

Oswego's German Evangelical Methodists built this frame church building in 1896. English-speaking Methodists attended the Methodist- Episcopal Church (the Little White School Museum) until 1912 when they merged with their German-speaking co-religionists. After the Oswego Congregational Church burned in 1920, the Methodists and Congregationalists, with Baptists and Lutherans formed the Federated Church in this building. In 1957, the church officially named the Church of the Good Shepherd, Evangelical United Brethren, named because of the main panel in the landmark building's front-facing stained glass window. In 1968, the Oswego congregation officially joined the United Methodist denomination.

This is the sixth year Cat's Meow historic building miniatures have been sold as the OHA's main annual fundraiser.

Past buildings featured (and still available for sale) are the Korte-Zentmyer Building, the Hoze-Cherry House, the Chapman House, the Crothers-Jolly-Denney House, the Dairy Hut, the Schwartz House (Tripp Insurance), the A.O. Parke Building (American Male & Company), the Durrand House (The Village Grind), the Oswego Fire Barn (Oswego Cyclery), the Knapp Building (Masonic Hall-Oswego Family Restaurant building), the Rank Building (former Oswego Library and Ledger-Sentinel offices), the Schickler Building (The Marmalade Tree and barber shop), the Little White School Museum, and the Oswego Woman's Civic Club's iconic "Welcome to Oswegoland" sign.

Each building facade is accurately rendered, and measures approximately 6 x 4 inches. A brief building history is included on the reverse of each miniature. Buildings are available at $20 each. Proceeds benefit the heritage association and the Little White School Museum's operations.

Complete building sets offer a quaint, and accurate, depiction of Oswego's historic architecture in and around the downtown area.

All buildings in the series are on sale at the Little White School Museum, 72 Polk Street (Jackson at Polk), Oswego.

Also available at the museum store is a selection of fine custom Great Bay Pottery Oswego marked stoneware, along with books and pamphlets on Oswegoland history, and books and videos featuring the Oswego area's home-grown environmental crusader, "The Fox."

Copies of Oswego Township, a 128 page pictorial history with dozens of historic images from the museum's collections are $20 each. 150 Years Along the Fox: The History of Oswego Township, Illinois, a 192 page hardbound volume is available at $35 per copy.

By Trace and Trail, a stagecoach and mail route monograph, is available at $10. Also available are monographs on aspects of Oswego history at $1 each, along with a number of other local history-related books and pamphlets, including books and other items concerning Jim Phillips, the ecological hero who called himself The Fox, including "The Legend of the Fox," a video on both DVD and VHS about Phillips' exploits.

The museum is open Thursday through Saturday by reservation. For more information or to make a reservation, call 630-554-4494, or visit the museum web site at www.littlewhiteschool-museum.org. ☺ recreation was provided through the Oswegoland Park District.

As the years passed, Dise's vision of a complete community with schools, churches, and businesses was realized as the Boulder Hill Neighborhood Church of the Brethren and St. Luke's Lutheran Church opened, along with the Boulder Hill Market shopping center, and even a McDonald's restaurant a few years after the U.S. Route 30 Bypass was completed and opened in July 1959.

For many years, the Little White School Museum has been trying to acquire as much Boulder Hill-related historical material for its collections as it can.

Among other items, the museum's Boulder Hill collection includes photos, Boulder Hill Directories, newsletters, home plans and sale documents, and more.

Do you have any documents, photos, slides, or other items related to Boulder

Hill's rich and interesting history including house plans, sale documents, or other items? If so, the museum is eager to acquire them for their collections.

"Our goal is to tell the story of Boulder Hill," explained museum director Roger Matile. "Boulder Hill had a huge effect on the Oswegoland area. For instance, many people don't know the first park owned by the Oswegoland Park District was Susan John Park on Hampton Road in Boulder Hill. We need to preserve as much of Boulder Hill's history as we can now while memories are relatively fresh."

we currently have."

During his years with the museum, Stekl also worked hard to update exhibits in the museum gallery, particularly the transportation and military exhibits. That also led to him establishing the annual salute to veterans the museum began hold each November. The last "Remembering Our Veterans" exhibit in November 2019 was held for an entire month and filled the museum's main Roger Matile Room.

He also gave a number of programs on model railroading and set up a model railroad exhibit at Christmas for a couple years.

During his tenure volunteering at the museum, the usage of the building changed considerably, a lot of upgrades were done, and he helped considerably with the total museum gallery makeover in 2018-2019.

"And besides all that, Bob was also usually the go-to guy if something needed fixing or a light bulb needed changing," Matile noted. "We're going to miss him, his presence, his ability to help folks with family history research, and his general knowledge of the museum and its collections."

Memorials create lasting tributes to family members and other loved ones

A memorial gift to the Oswegoland Heritage Association is an especially meaningful way to recognize friends, family, business associates, and special occasions, while at the same time supporting the collections, educational programs, and mission of the only organization dedicated to Oswegoland's rich history. All families have to do is make sure their funeral director is informed that memorials should be addressed to the Oswegoland Heritage Association, Box 23, Oswego, IL 60543.

During the past calendar year, financial gifts to the Oswegoland Heritage Association have been received in memory of: Kenneth "Mickey" Gengler from Jack and Renee Weis and Laurie Sehie Krueger; in remembrance of Minnie Wheeler Cubit from the Oswego High School Class of 1957; in memory of Gladys Ode from Leonard Burkhart; and in remembrance of Elaine Matile Lieser from Kari Sehie and Bill and Beth Vickery.

Memorial gifts to the Oswegoland Heritage Association are deposited in the association's Endowment Fund. While the principal of the Endowment Fund is to be conserved, the fund's earnings can be used for heritage association operations and activities upon vote of the OHA Board of Directors.

All contributions are acknowledged with a personalized thank-you note sent to the honored individual or family without reference to the amount of the gift. In addition, the names of the individuals being honored will be listed in future issues of The Bell Tower.
